SUMMARY.

The "Morning Post" Paris correspondent says that a remarkable change has come over the German fighting.

There is no longer any doubt, he remarks, that the German army is making the most important progress in the Chilly district.

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 8, 1916.

THE WESTERN OFFENSIVE.

The remarks of the correspondents quoted in our columns this morning furnish conclusive evidence of the nature of the struggle on the western front, and of the importance of the results attained. We have long ago ceased to wonder at the heroism of the soldiers of the new army, who less than two years ago were earning their living in some civilian occupation. Their gallantry in this offensive has merely deepened and confirmed the impression made by the first and second offensives. It is not likely to stop after having given the Allies a better starting point than they had before. A subsidiary object, no less important, is to break the German line, which stands behind the high road now menaced both by the British and French. It is because it protects the high road that the German line has been so carefully defended and attacked with such amazing vigour. Its capture puts the Allies in a position to dominate the town of Verdun, and to threaten the German line. But it is by no means the only reason why the capture of Verdun is so important. It is because it is a key to the German line, and it is by its capture that the German line can be broken. It is by its capture that the German line can be broken, and it is by its capture that the German line can be broken.

CLOSER SETTLEMENT.

The reception given in the Legislative Assembly to the Closer Settlement Bill yesterday shows that both sides realise the importance of developing the primary industries of the State. If there is a similar agreement about the future of the State, the Government will be able to do much more for the farmer. It is a country matter, instead of entering a general election with the evidence of the land made to our salvation in a crisis of the country. It is a country matter, instead of entering a general election with the evidence of the land made to our salvation in a crisis of the country. It is a country matter, instead of entering a general election with the evidence of the land made to our salvation in a crisis of the country.

THE ROUMANIANS. THEIR PLACE IN THE BALKANS. FAMOUS LEADERS.

Mr. A. Newman, of 444 George-street, Sydney, is, to all appearances, an Australian, but as a matter of fact, he is a Roumanian, born in Bucharest 31 years ago. And his Roumanian name is the equivalent of Newman in English—Nănum.

A MEAT FAMINE.

Within forty-eight hours the metropolis may have to face a meat famine, because the slaughtermen are either slowing down or have ceased work.

It is a fact that the Roumanians are a very fine country, and that it is only had Roumanian and Transylvanian taken on to it, I would go back again. It would be the best country in the world to live in. It is a very fine country, and that it is only had Roumanian and Transylvanian taken on to it, I would go back again. STATE FINANCE. MR. BEEBY'S CRITICISM. REPLY BY PREMIER. SLAUGHTERMEN. MUTTON MEN ON STRIKE. FAMINE ANTICIPATED.

The Premier last night replied to the criticism offered against his financial statement by Mr. G. Beeby.

I cannot enter into a controversy with Mr. Beeby on the matter of opinion expressed by him in his lengthy criticism of the financial statement. I have, however, got to say that Mr. Beeby's criticism is a very good one, and that it is only had Roumanian and Transylvanian taken on to it, I would go back again. It would be the best country in the world to live in.

These are the main allegations of Mr. Beeby's article, given in his own words:—
1. "The alleged surplus of £100,000 was not really a surplus, but was created by the Treasury."

Answer: The surplus of £100,000 was a real surplus, and was not created by the Treasury. It was a surplus of the revenue, and was not a surplus of the expenditure.

2. "The alleged surplus of £100,000 was not really a surplus, but was created by the Treasury."

THE SOMME

IMPORTANCE OF GAINS

MORE POSITIONS TAKEN

THE BALKANS

RUSSIA'S NEW TASK

ENEMY IN DOBRUDJA

Correspondents appear unanimous in urging the tactical importance of the Allies' recent gains on the Somme.

The British have taken the whole of Leuze Wood, and are engaged in a furious battle for the possession of Ginchy.

The French have extended their gains on both sides of the river. South of the Somme they are pushing along the Chaulnes-Roye railway, and have completely taken the village of Berry.

The Russians' Dniester army, driving towards Hahz, have captured fortified positions and taken some thousands of prisoners.

It is believed that the Russians are preparing an army commensurate with the Mediterranean through the Balkans.

Enemy forces are attacking at Turtukan and in Dobrudja, on the southern Roumanian frontier.

ALLIES' REPORTS.

FRENCH PUSH FORWARD.

LONDON, Sept. 7.—The French have carried their first line to the east of Chaulnes, and along the Chaulnes-Roye railway. There is desperate fighting in the Chilly area. The French have captured the village of Berry, and are pushing forward towards the village of Ginchy.

A French communiqué on Wednesday stated:—Our current line broke down many attacks against our new position south of Doullens.

The first Paris communiqué on Wednesday stated:—We captured several thousand yards of Belloy-entour, and occupy the northern portion of the Verdun road to the Estre-roule. We have taken the village of Chilly. The prisoners are numerous, but have not been counted.

BRITISH TAKE LEUZE WOOD.
General Sir Douglas Haig, in his midday report of Wednesday, says: We have captured the village of Leuze Wood, and are pushing forward towards the village of Ginchy.

At Ginchy, our artillery caught and destroyed a large party emerging from the village.

IMPORTANT GAINS.

ADVANTAGE TO ALLIES.

FRENCH ACHIEVEMENTS.

The British press correspondent, Mr. Philip Gibbs, writes:—The importance of our gains since Sunday does not seem to be sufficiently realised. In the first place, as a communiqué mentioned, the capture of Guillemont and the ground beyond has given us the whole of the German second line, which was broken on the great day of July 14. It has been a splendid achievement, and so, as to gain the high ridge from Ploeghe eastwards.

The difficulty of the task, and the cost, have not been light. The heroism on these slopes and in these woods is the most wonderful ever shown by British soldiers in any campaign. Now that we have gained the crest, even if the offensive is brought to a dead halt today—which it will not be—our men's winter position is enormously superior to that of the enemy. Further, we have straightened out an awkward salient, and if we take Ginchy and Thiepval we will be in a better position.

A Paris message says that each day the Somme struggle grows in promise of achievement. The moment seems near when local fighting will give results which will be of more than local importance. Already the Allies immediately threaten the enemy's position, and the latter runs parallel with the front between Bapaume, Peronne and Roye. The British are under two miles from the road, and the latest French advance brings them within a few hundred yards of it.

The French Field Artillery now sweeps the Peronne-Bapaume section. It is difficult to see how the enemy's heavy guns on Mount St. Quentin, north of Peronne, are going to get supplies. The splendid French successes south of the Somme have been achieved in the worst imaginable weather conditions. They show the progress of the battle, and being secured in better weather, which is apparently at hand.

The capture of a portion of Anderlue Wood is valuable, as the wood is situated on the sheltered side of a ravine, which the Germans were in the habit of utilising as an assembling point for counter-attacks.

Though General von Hindenburg refused violence into the counter-attacks, the result has been only to increase the German losses. They are fighting with plenty of spirit, but the French artillery fire shows an equal increase in quality.

The growing number of prisoners is a pleasing portent. The total taken by the French on the Somme since July 1 is 42,000.

THE AUSTRALIANS.

MOUTQUET FARM LOST.

BUT HIGHER RIDGE HELD.

Captain C. E. W. Bean, the official Australian Press correspondent, writing from the Press Headquarters in France on September 7, says:—

At dawn yesterday the Australians attacked Moutquet Farm and the ridge north of it. The Farm was taken at the first rush, and the line swept two hundred yards beyond it, the troops on the right reaching the German trench on the crest, from which they looked down over a wide stretch of country for miles behind the German lines.

The Germans fought for a moment, but then they immediately retreated. The fighting was very fierce.

Moutquet Farm and the line opposite the Australians was manned by the First Australian Division. The Second and Third Divisions were in the dug-out line. The Germans fought for a moment, but then they immediately retreated. The fighting was very fierce.

Moutquet Farm and the line opposite the Australians was manned by the First Australian Division. The Second and Third Divisions were in the dug-out line. The Farm was taken at the first rush, and the line swept two hundred yards beyond it, the troops on the right reaching the German trench on the crest, from which they looked down over a wide stretch of country for miles behind the German lines.

ROUMANIANS.

ENEMY ATTACKS.

ON SOUTHERN FRONTIER.

LONDON, Sept. 7.—A Roumanian communiqué states: After actively fighting in the region of Borechi (in Northern Transylvania) we occupied the heights to the westward, capturing 154 prisoners.

We hold the whole of the Dobruja frontier. We repulsed an attack southward of Bazarjik. The battle continues along the remainder of the frontier.

The enemy bombarded Islat and Kalafat, upon the Danube.

Three heavy planes bombed Constanta, and wounded several women and children.

TRANSYLVANIA.
A Rome wireless says: The Austrians have already evacuated one-third of Transylvania, where a few Turkish troops have arrived, but no Germans.

Geneva advises state that thousands of hungry and homeless fugitives provoked riots in Budapest.

The Hungarian Parliament is sitting continuously, carrying on an agitated discussion. Roumanian troops of the week of war have occupied 7000 square miles of Hungarian territory.

ZEPPELINS AT BUCHAREST.
German reports state that three Zeppelins raided Bucharest, and claim that wheat stores were set on fire.

RUSSIAN BALKAN ARMY.
The "Lokai Anzeiger" states that the Grand Duke Nicholas commands the Russian Balkan army against the Bulgarians.

ON THE DANUBE.
A Russian communiqué says: Germans and Bulgarians are attacking the Roumanians in the region of Turtukan, a fortified town on the Danube east of Ruskuk.

ENEMY REPORT.
A German communiqué says: We stormed seven works at Turtukan on the Danube, including armoured batteries. The Bulgarians drove back the Roumanian forces north of Dobric, 25 miles north by west of Varna.

NEAR EAST.
RUSSIA TO SOLVE PROBLEM.
"MYSTERIOUS NEW ARMY."

LONDON, Sept. 7.—The London "Morning Post" Petrosburg correspondent states of thousands of Russian soldiers in France and Salonica; also of a mysterious and entirely new army in front of Manama and Clerg. The enemy attempted to cover every inch of the German lines with shells, fighting with nothing else. It is brutal money which he bought his shells.

The commander of the German armies on the Somme said:—We may lose position, but they will never break through.

SCENE IN DIET.
HUNGARY DISTURBED.
Reports from London describe a scene which occurred in the Hungarian Diet on Tuesday. Count Andrássy scathingly criticised the Government's proposals to cope with the Roumanian intervention, and declared the Diet's confidence in its leaders had disappeared.

The Eastern question, he says, is now simply a matter of time. Hungary's full energy must be concentrated on defence. Grave errors had been committed by the present dictatorial methods of the Government, which could no longer tolerate.

Other deputies made similar speeches.

The Press Count Tota, replied it was only natural that refugees would cause discontent, but calmness and unity were necessary. The invasion was unexpected, and it was impossible to warn the inhabitants to evacuate their homes.

Count Tota was constantly interrupted by angry shouts. He proceeded: "We were aware of Roumanian preparations, but we thought our alliance with Bulgaria and Turkey were a sufficient guarantee against Roumanian intervention." He begged the House to show a calm, strong spirit.

ITALIAN FRONT.
FIRST SNOW REPORTED.
LONDON, Sept. 5.—An Italian communiqué on Wednesday stated:—The first snow has fallen. We extended our occupation on the western slope of Punta del Perone.

EGYPT.
ENEMY CAMP BOMBED.
LONDON, Sept. 6.—It is officially announced from Egypt that an air raid on the enemy's camp at Manja was made on Monday. An aircraft gun was disabled, and a number of bombs were dropped with good effect on camps, supply depots, and camel lines.

SUBMARINES.
BRITISH STEAMER SUNK.
PORTLAND, Sept. 6.—Twenty-eight Americans were aboard the British steamer Kelvinia (5029 tons), which was sunk on September 2 by a torpedo or mine.

They were saved and landed in Glasgow.

BRITISH AIRMAN'S FEAT.
A British airman blew up a damaged German submarine in Zebruggen harbour and returned to Dunkirk despite a heavy bombardment.

NOT KILLED.
LONDON, Sept. 7.—Captain A. H. Kennedy, of the Australian forces, who was believed to have been killed at the end of July, has written to his wife in England announcing that he is a prisoner in Göttingen, and wounded in the foot.

MERCHANT SHIPPING.
LONDON, Sept. 6.—The steamer Garmyale (from Sydney) has arrived at Tait, and the steamer Peru has left for Melbourne.

TURKEY'S PLIGHT.
A LEVY EN MASSE.
LONDON, Sept. 7.—A Paris report states that Turkey has called up for military service the whole of her male population between the ages of 17 and 55, regardless of nationality.

ENEMY MORE CAUTIOUS.
SUPPRESSING REVENTLOW.
LONDON, Sept. 6.—An Amsterdam message says that the "deutsche Tageszeitung" announces that the correspondent, Count Reventlow, has been forbidden to publish articles in future without the censor's permission.

A later message states that the "Tageszeitung" has been suspended.

Count Reventlow is the well-known German writer who recently has been vigorously advocating that Germany prosecute the war with greater ruthlessness.

EAST FRONT.

ADVANCE ON HALICZ.

4500 PRISONERS.

LONDON, Sept. 6.—A Russian communiqué states: We captured a fortified position between the Zlota Lipa and the Dniester, in the direction of Halicz, and drove the enemy to the westward, taking 4500 prisoners, of whom 2000 were Germans.

Our advance in the Carpathians continues. We have captured a further series of heights, and have repelled repeated counter-attacks.

A German communiqué says:—Between the Zlota Lipa and the Dniester the Russian pressed back our centre. The enemy gained advantages in the Carpathians, south-west of Zlota and Schipol.

An Austrian communiqué admits the Russian successes in pressing back the Austrians eastward of Halicz, also in the Carpathians.

ASIATIC CAMPAIGN.
ENEMY'S GREAT LOSSES.
LONDON, Sept. 6.—Our advancing troops in the Ognat region of Armenia are inflicting great losses on the enemy. We found corpses of our soldiers which the Turks had terribly mutilated. British armoured cars drove out the Turks from villages westward of Lake Van.

ZEPPELIN RAID.
OBSERVATION CAR.
INTERESTING DEDUCTIONS.
LONDON, Sept. 6.—Admiralty officers have examined the remains of the Zeppelin car which was picked up in East Anglia. It is believed the crew with a wire lowered an observer within 300 yards of the ground, while the Zeppelin continued hidden in the clouds. The car was made with aluminium, and was 7ft 6in long. It included a wireless, a telephone, torches, and the latest scientific instruments for observing positions and distances. One thousand feet of aluminium wire was found. The observer entered the car through a sliding door, and lay on the mattress throughout his observations. The present gondola is quite different to the earlier cars which were used by the Zeppelins. In this observer, who was in a basket, looked over the side.

GERMANY'S VERSION.
The German official version of the air raid says: We repeatedly attacked the town of London, the city and the north-western quarters of the city, for four hours. We observed numerous fires and collapsing buildings. Other aircraft attacked Norwich factories and fortified establishments, causing explosions and fires. We also dropped bombs at Oxford, Harwell, and Boston, a number of houses, factories, and industrial establishments. There were numerous fires. We silenced a battery at Yarmouth and attacked military manufacturing establishments at Nottingham. All attacks upon our naval airships were unsuccessful.

The Press Bureau repeats that the damage was practically nil. There were no casualties of any importance, and no explosions. We have the strongest reasons to believe that an airship in addition to that destroyed, was very seriously damaged.

TWO SUPER-ZEPPELINS LOST.
It is reported from Switzerland that Germany lost two super-Zeppelins.

DAMAGED AIRSHIP.
The Central News Agency's Hague correspondent reports that a Zeppelin, while en route from England, was so heavily damaged that it landed near Mons. Several of the crew had shrapnel wounds. German troops dismantled the airship, and sent the parts by train to Germany.

FUNERAL OF CREW.
A great crowd was present at the funeral of the Zeppelin crew at Potter's Bar. Many police were drafted in, as disturbances were feared in view of protests against military honours being accorded to the remains. The funeral was of the utmost simplicity. The coffins were carried on a military band. A short service of the Anglican type was recited and the "Last Post" sounded. There was no firing party. The crowds were silent and unmoved. There was no demonstration.

The inscription on the Zeppelin officer's coffin says:—"An unknown German officer killed while commanding Zeppelin 121."

The remains of the commander were carried on a separate bier and were buried in a separate grave.

The formula in the burial service, "Our dear brother," was suitably modified.

REPRISAL CAMPS.
ABANDONED IN GERMANY.
A Paris message states that Germany, after negotiations with France, has agreed to abandon reprisal camps—namely in Courland and Poland—and return French prisoners to ordinary war camps.

AUSTRALIAN PRISONERS.
RED CROSS SENDS FOOD.
LONDON, Sept. 6.—The Australian Red Cross is sending weekly parcels of food to 450 Australian soldiers who are prisoners in Germany. The prisoners cost 5s weekly.

WAR NOTES.
SQUEEZING GERMAN POSITIONS.
The allied press on both sides of the Somme continues, and forces fighting is still proceeding at various points along the front. General Haig's messages indicate a desire to give the enemy no time to recover from the shock of the latest assault around Ginchy. The British are accordingly hammering away at Ginchy on the north and Cumblies on the south. The methods which brought about the capture of Guillemont, and which are being followed at Thiepval, are also evident in the latest moves against several of the villages which are now threatened. Ginchy, that important village on the extreme eastern section of the Somme, high ground, is gradually being cut off by the British advance on its southern side. The capture of the whole of Leuze Wood by the British shows that they are well rounded the northern side of the village of Cumblies.

DEATH OF DEAN SMYTH.
WELLINGTON (N.Z.), Thursday.—The death is announced of Dean Smyth, President of the Market Order in New Zealand, at the age of 67.

WESTERN PORT EMPLOYEES.
MELBOURNE, Thursday.—In the Commonwealth Arbitration Court today Mr. Justice Higgins granted an increase of sixpence per day in respect of the claim made by Western Port Seamen employed at the Western Port Naval Base.

INTERSTATE FREIGHTS.
MELBOURNE, Thursday.—In the Senate yesterday Senator Roper (Tas.) wanted to know what action the Government proposed to take under the War Precautions Act in connection with the regulation of interstate freight rates.

Senator Roper asked the Minister if it had already been made illegal to increase freights beyond the rates that ruled on July 8 of last year. He asked that the matter was by the Government, the Customs Department, and the Navy Department.

PROBLEMS FOR AUSTRALIA.
An address was delivered at the 21st annual meeting of the Chamber of Manufacturers by the president, Mr. W. T. Williamson, last night.

In moving the adoption of the annual report, Mr. Williamson said that with the advance of an exceptional harvest and increased volume of work, Australia had been able to meet the demands of the situation in a fairly satisfactory manner. Trade had been assisted largely by the demand for military requirements, and though much reduction, upon the whole, the volume of business in the near future, he thought, would be maintained.

Naturally the post-war problem involving our future trade relations and methods of manufacturing, occupied a foremost place in the mind of most manufacturers and commercial men. What is required very fully, Mr. Williamson added, is that the Government should be able to meet the demand for the post-war period in a fairly satisfactory manner. Trade had been assisted largely by the demand for military requirements, and though much reduction, upon the whole, the volume of business in the near future, he thought, would be maintained.

STATE SESSION.

CLOSER SETTLEMENT RESUMPTIONS.

RAILWAY APPEALS BILL.

CONFERENCE WITH UPPER HOUSE.

A record was established at yesterday afternoon's sitting of the Legislative Assembly. Ministers were left entirely free of the ordeal of answering questions without notice. This portion of the business generally occupies from half an hour upwards, and can invariably be relied upon for some interesting passages between Ministers and members.

The evening a free conference was held with the Upper House. The provisions of the bill were discussed, and the bill was passed by the Upper House.

CLOSER SETTLEMENT. Mr. Ashford, Minister for Lands, moved the second reading of the bill. The bill was passed by the Upper House.

AFTER HOURS.

EFFECT OF SIX O'CLOCK CLOSING.

POLICE REPORT.

As a consequence of recent disclosures made about the evasion of six o'clock closing of liquor bars, and which became the subject of some discussion in Parliament, the Premier instructed the Inspector-General of Police to make investigations and prepare a report. This report was made available at the Chief Inspector-General's Department yesterday.

The Inspector-General says he has received reports from the officers in charge of the four metropolitan police divisions. With the exception of one—Marshallville—all these officers admit that six o'clock closing is not being observed. LorrIDGE (Inspector and Investigating Officer of the Public Service Board), the Royal Commissioner appointed to inquire into the circumstances connected with the recall of the best shots in the Commonwealth, is beginning his inquiry at the Water Conservation and Irrigation Commission during 1915, 1916, opened his inquiry at Parliament House yesterday morning.

LIEUT. KERR. Lieut. James Kerr, who was killed in action in France, was a son of Mr. J. Kerr, of Sydney, and was 19 years of age.

AMERICAN RETALIATION.

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.

IT IS EXPECTED THAT AMERICA WILL AGREE TO THE PROVISIONS OF THE REVENUE BILL.

It is expected that America will agree to the provisions of the Revenue Bill, which provides for a retaliation against the British "black list". The newspapers generally approve of retaliation. The "Tribune" regrets that such action is necessary, as it believes the defeat of Germany is essential to America. However, some anti-retaliationists are protesting against the "black list" as a "war measure".

REINFORCEMENTS.

SPRING STYLES ARE LAVISHLY FEATURED AT MARC'S CLARK & CO., LTD.

And in making this assertion we make no exaggerated statement, as a visit of inspection will at once demonstrate.

The Fashion centre of the world have been summoned to provide stylish and correct wear for the season, and the result of our keen buying now available for your judgment.

We would remind you, however, Ladies, that, with the increasing heat of the season, and the increasing demand for stylish and correct wear, the prices are on the up grade.

You are therefore strongly advised to make your purchases NOW, as later consignments will not be procurable at the same prices.
